GRATA International will hold an online conference in the Banking & Finance field

On September 29, 2022, a conference on Fintech in countries of Eurasia: latest legal developments and major issues, with the participation of GRATA offices in Azerbaijan, Belarus, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan and Moldova will be held.

The conference starts at 11:00 (Moscow time).

The conference will be of interest to fintech companies that would like to enter the markets of Eurasian countries.

Over the past 10 years, the banking sector has experienced a serious tightening requirements. As a result, financial institutions began to lose competition to fintech companies that are not limited by capital requirements. Fintech companies can invest much more actively in technologies and new services; recently they have created services with a significantly larger number of points of interaction with the client than the classic banking business.

The rapid development of modern technologies has stimulated an increase in the need of users of financial services for their digitalization and contributed to the creation of financial technologies. And the creation of financial technologies, in turn, led to the need to develop a legislative framework that regulates their implementation and application.
