The in-depth development and strengthening of ties between the regions of Kazakhstan creates favourable conditions for cooperation, business development, and the implementation of new projects in the immediate vicinity of the company's main income sources.

Our practice shows that non-resident companies have an interest in doing business in the border regions of Kazakhstan due to the flexibility of transportation and logistics this creates for their product. Moreover, manufacturing companies in neighbouring countries are considering doing business in the border regions of Kazakhstan, since this reduces the prime cost of the company's product, thereby creating new enterprises and jobs in such regions of Kazakhstan.

However, alongside the establishment of new business processes, disputes may arise in the activities of companies that require the actual presence of lawyers and attorneys in a particular region. In such cases, companies require qualified local lawyers.

Our offices in Kazakhstan are pleased to announce that we are expanding the range of our services and the broadening our network of offices through the launch of our service 'Litigation in the regions of Kazakhstan'.

Representation of clients in litigation within the framework of this law practice will be provided by qualified GRATA International lawyers in Nur-Sultan and other regions of Kazakhstan: Aktau, Atyrau, Pavlodar, Kyzylorda, Taraz, Shymkent, Turkestan, Ust-Kamenogorsk, and Kostanai.

Attorneys in our regional offices have extensive experience and a deep understanding of litigation specifics. They are supported by the Dispute Resolution Department in Almaty, which includes experienced retired judges, enabling our clients to receive expert opinions and practical perspectives on disputes. This will allow us to develop top business strategies, and help our regional clients achieve their goals. Please note that each region of Kazakhstan is specific and has its own 'character', which our colleagues in each region understand well.

We are pleased to offer you the following services:

- ▶ Pre-trial dispute resolution procedures;
- ▶ Court representation in all circumstances;
- ▶ Legal support throughout the course of enforcement;
- ▶ The enforcement of foreign judgements and awards;
- ▶ Legal support throughout the course of audits by state authorities in the region.
