ALERT of the amendments to the Regulatory ruling of the Supreme Court of the Republic of Kazakhstan on tax legislation

The Supreme Court of the Republic of Kazakhstan drafted the amendments to the Regulatory ruling 'On judicial practice on application of tax legislation' dated 29 June 2017 No. 4[1]. The amendments affected the provisions on recognition of transactions as invalid on the basis of the claims from the state revenue authorities. Below you may find the main provisions of the draft:

- ▶ The state revenue authorities are entitled to submit the claims to the courts on recognition of transactions as invalid only upon finding the actual absence of the transaction in the course of the tax audit.
- ▶ The transaction shall not be recognised as invalid only on the basis of absence of the taxpayer's assets, buildings, vehicles, material and human resources or economic substance of the accounted transactions. The state revenue authorities shall in addition provide other evidence and arguments including the results of the taxpayer's tax audit, cross tax audits etc.
- ▶ The transaction performed on the basis of a fraudulent invoice may be recognised as invalid (void) only upon condition that the fact of the fraudulent invoice issue was confirmed by a final and binding judicial act: the court's sentence under Article 216 of the Criminal Code of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated 3 July 2014 or the court's ruling on administrative violation under Article 280 of the Administrative Code of the Republic of Kazakhstan dated 5 July 2014.
